International Master Programme in Buddhist Studies

Educational Goals

The goal of education is to cultivate a personality equipped with wisdom and compassion based on the Buddhist spirit, and to have both the ability and knowledge to correctly look at the human nature and the essence of the world. In addition, we seek to produce leaders with Buddhist character and knowledge through providing various lectures in doctrinal and practical fields that students of various nationalities need in modern multi cultural society.

Career and Employment

College of Buddhism has produced talented and dedicated people who understand Buddhist history and culture and Buddhist doctrine and philosophy for the future 4th Industrial Era. They are now working in such fields as religious administrators, religious teachers, military chaplains, social workers, NGO activists, Buddhist academics, and religious media journalists. In addition, it is expected that talented people produced through the newly established International Master Programme in Buddhist Studies will spread Korean Buddhism around the world and lay foundation for the internationalization of Buddhism, Buddhist Culture and Buddhist Studies. By advancing to International PhD Programme in Buddhist Studies, we plan to produce international Buddhist scholars working at research institutes, universities and various Buddhist-related areas.
